Onsite with Olaya

Meet the woman playing an important role in ensuring the successful delivery of one of Bunbury's key infrastructure projects – Olaya Lope-Casado.

As the superintendent's representative on the Jetty Road causeway upgrade, Ms Lope-Casado oversees onsite work.

This currently involves the reconstruction of the causeway, new parking bays, creation of shared pathways and landscaping, improvements to the utility services, and the construction of a multi-purpose building.

Earlier this year, local rock was placed on the 600 metre structure to improve protection during storm events.

Ms Lope-Casado said she liked working onsite and being part of a project taking Bunbury forward.

"From the feedback I've received from residents, I realise it's something they've been waiting on for a long time," Ms Lope-Casado said.

Since 2011, the civil engineer has been working for the Department of Transport on projects in Exmouth, Onslow and Perth.

Ms Lope-Casado said she "loved" living in Bunbury, saying a smaller city was ideal for raising a young family.

KEEPING IT LOCAL

Did you know there are five South West subcontractors, including four Bunbury-based businesses, helping to deliver the Jetty Road causeway upgrades?
